DIARY of a Wimpy Kid

The Mystery

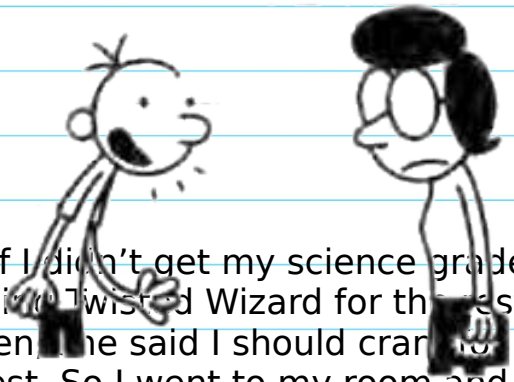
Monday

I was busy grinding Twisted Wizard 9 today when Mom entered the room. She looked really mad. Mom said she knew what I got on my recent science test on some site called “Infinite Campus.” Really, that app was torture. Parents knew the secret grades their kids got even before KNOWING it. I tried telling Mom that Rodrick was distracting me while I was studying but she wasn’t having it.



She said if I didn’t get my science grade up, I was never seeing Twisted Wizard for the rest of my life again. Then, she said I should cram for my next science test. So I went to my room and started reading about boring and shitty nitrogen. Damn that Mom. I could be watching Blue Lock right now but instead, I’m reading about how climate change can impact the future. Then, everything suddenly made sense. I understood science. I saw the chemical bonds in the correct way for once. I was so happy. I suddenly became fascinated with the human body. It was pretty fun. Then, Mom came upstairs and she looked joyful for once. She said I should prepare for some small pop quiz she was giving me. Of course, I groaned. But when she gave me the quiz, it was really easy. When I got it back, Mom looked really happy! Damn it. Now, my teacher will put me in the Gifted and Talented group in science. But there's one advantage. Holly Hills is in that group, and I could impress her! Then, Rodrick came by and called me a nerd.

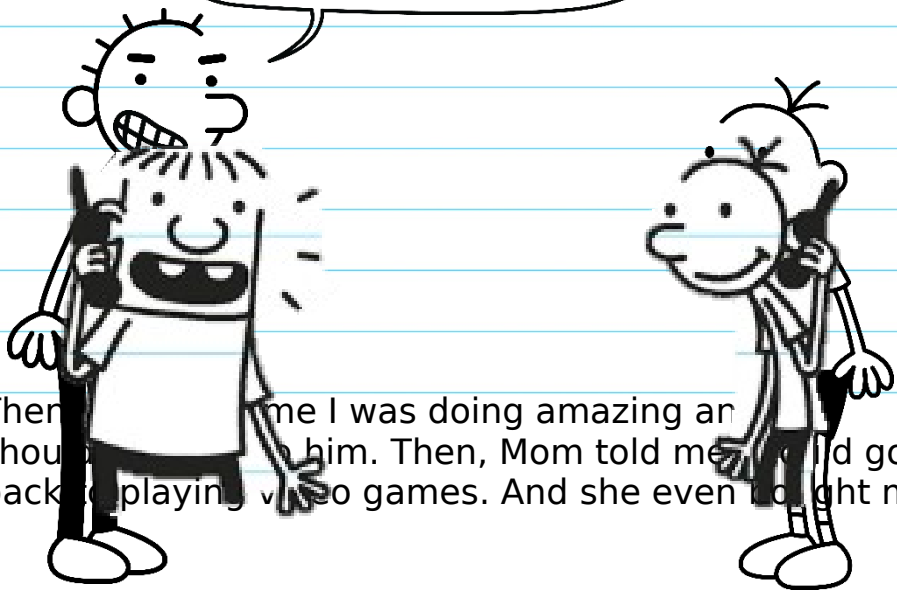
Then, I told on Rodrick. Mom was so mad at Rodrick for calling me the a-word that he grounded him for an entire month and he couldn't have band practice. She even made him write a five-page essay about why cursing at your brother is a bad manner.



Then me I was doing amazing an shou him. Then, Mom told me d go back playing video games. And she even ght me the new video game, Twisted Wizard Science Edition. Rowley called me and asked if I played the new version of Twisted Wizard yet and I told him yes.

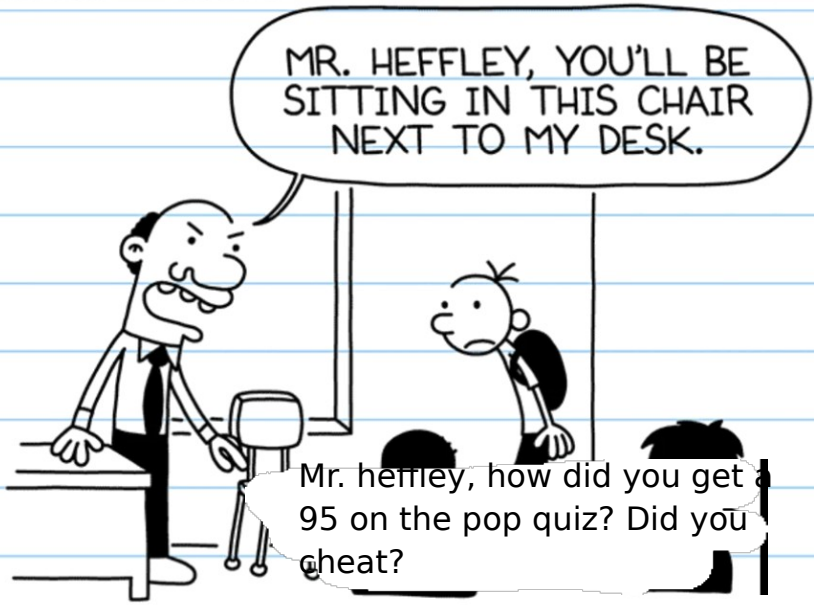
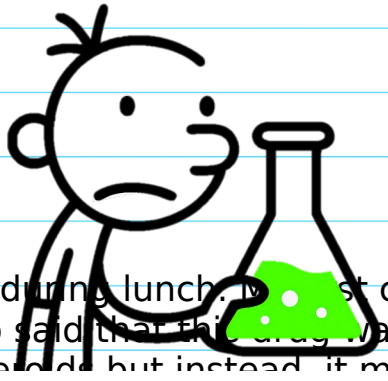
Tuesday



Mr. Staples didn't believe me, but he said I could look around the G. and T. lab. But then, I found a secret drawer labeled with suspicious stuff like "OPEN AT YOUR OWN RISK" or "THIS OBJECT INSIDE THIS DRAWER IS CLASSIFIED. PLEASE DON'T OPEN OR ELSE YOU WILL BE SERVING 100 DAYS OF DETENTION WITH

MR. STAPLES.” That sounded creepy. The mistake was he made it sound suspicious. I opened it and found a substance inside it. It looked neon green. According to the looks, it was probably hydrogen peroxide (H2O2) dipped with carbon dioxide (CO2). Wait, this also has nitrogen and neon! This is probably a drug that will make you smart and strong but does have side effects! I decided to do the ultimate thing: start duplicating this drug and selling is secretly around the school. Then, I will sell it for fifty cents a dose.



I started selling it during lunch. My first customer was Albert Sandy, who said that this drug was supposed to be a remake of steroids but instead, it made you smart instead. [illegible]es.

got them all correct.

Mr. heffley. You got a 100% on the test today. How did you do so?

Then, I went back home after a long day of school. It wasn't any longer before Manny or Mom found the substance so I decided to hide it somewhere safe. Which was really rude because I spent a week working on it, and my hands were really hurting. Then, I reentered the house, but then, I saw Rodrick who BTW, was still grounded. But in all of his rage, he decided to put it all on me. So he decided to push me down the stair, but I fell onto a pillow but I was still bleeding on my arms. Then, Dad ran to the rescue and found out that I was on the floor. He looked at Rodrick like he committed a murder. Then, he gave him an extra month of being grounded.

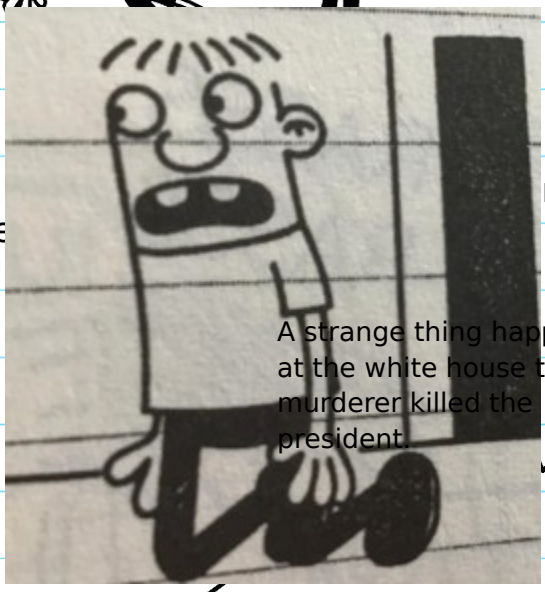
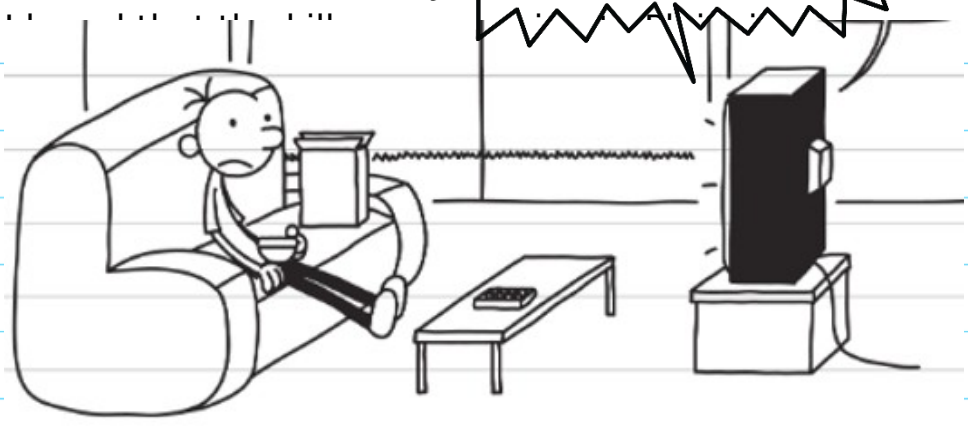
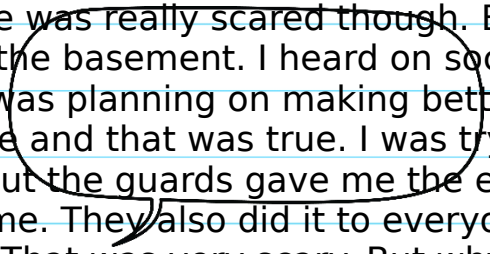
Speaking of ned at the White House





I told him not to worry and they will catch him soon enough. He was really scared though. But he locked himself in the basement. I heard on social media that everyone was planning on making better security everywhere and that was true. I was trying to go to the mall, but the guards gave me the evil eye and searched me. They also did it to everyone with a backpack. That was very scary. But why did they amp up their security. I mean, he was just a KILLER. What harm would he do? I don't really know, but this kinda sounds scary.



Wednesday

I started a black market in science. I started selling those drugs. I decided to call them "Nerd Juice." People were giving me five bucks a sip! Then, Holly Hills stormed in. I thought she wanted to end my business and I was embarrassed, but instead, Holly asked for a glug. I blushed when she smiled and said thanks!

This drug is actually pretty good. I needed it!

Then, I continued selling. I earned like 100 bucks today. But today was the day I made a huge mistake. There's some eighth grader at school who likes to sell drugs so I have some competition. He's selling steroids. I have P.E. after this so I decided to buy like three. I didn't actually PAY. I gave the eighth grader six doses of the drug but after swallowaing it all at once, he fainted. When he woke up a second later, he was acting like a drunk guy. He was groggy and started chasing me. He threataned to kill me at that ver

I was given detention for the rest of the week and I had to do child labor at the school. After school, Vice Principal Roy told me that I had to make lunch for the school tomorrow. It was hard. I flipped enough pancakes to last a LIFETIME. Then, I was told to clean up all the trash all around and inside the school. That took me two hours. Then, I was forced to grade everyone's test for sixth period history. This one was a huge part of our grade. But I gave myself a good grade and gave Patty Farell an F-. She'll learn never to mess with the man. I gave myself an A+. Then, I went back home, but Mom saw my detention report. She was mad. But then, Mom asked why he was chasing me. I had to think of a fib but finally found the perfect one. I told Mom that the student drank too much alcohol and Mom screamed. She ran to the school to tell Vice Principal Roy what really happened. Mr. Roy was really mad that the student and apologized for giving me detention. Then, I saw Holly Hills, playing soccer with the girls soccer team at school. That kinda inspired me to join the boys soccer team. But she looked at me, and she looked lovestruck. But then, she did the ultimate thing. She asked me out. Of course, I couldn't say no to the offer. Mom looked really happy and was crying, taking a video of everything that was happening.

It wa 5 pm so there was still e et a pizz to go watch a movie. We same rests. We both had an ol sibling, we both liked the Slumber Party Pals, we even have the same GRADES! But then, Holly was curious about the drugs that I had. She asked what they were. I told her that they were hydrogen peroxide with nitrogen and neon. But then, Holly looked concerned.

Then, we watched Zootopia 2 since Holly really liked the original Zootopia. Then, we walked back home, but Holly started singing Joshie, but I didn’t care because I was lovestruck.

I was flying through the air. But then, Mom saw us both when we were about to kiss. She looked really mad.
